Commentary as of 06/30/24

- The fund posted returns of 0.77% (Institutional shares) and 0.82% (Investor A shares, without sales charge) for the second quarter of 2024.
- Security selection within the non-agency residential mortgage-backed securities (RMBS) and commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS) sectors contributed to performance. The fund's shorter duration profile (lower sensitivity to interest rate movements) was also additive.
- The allocation to legacy non-agency RMBS increased during the quarter. Within CMBS, additions focused on senior single-asset, single-borrower (SASB) paper. Allocations to floating rate agency collateralized mortgage obligations (CMOs) rose. The fund's duration profile remained between three years and a little over four years.

Contributors

Within CMBS, senior conduit and SASB allocations across the capital structure were helpful. Allocations to non-agency RMBS were the main contributor to performance, specifically legacy RMBS and single-family rentals, as well as non-performing and re-performing mortgage loans. An allocation to lower-coupon agency CMO interest-only bonds was additive as spreads continued to tighten in this pocket of the market.

Detractors

Relative-value strategies within agency MBS weighed on performance during the quarter.

Further insight

Within CMBS, we continue to favor the top-of-the-capital structure across industrials, multi-family, hotels, and select office properties. Additionally, we continue to be opportunistic around non-agency RMBS, given fundamental and technical resilience in the sector, as home prices have remained robust and existing home sales have inched higher despite rising mortgage rates. We continue to hold a constructive outlook on agency MBS and see value both on an outright basis versus U.S. Treasuries and on a relative basis versus other forms of spread assets.

Important Risks: The fund is actively managed and its characteristics will vary. Holdings shown should not be deemed as a recommendation to buy or sell securities. Bond values fluctuate in price so the value of your investment can go down depending on market conditions. Fixed income risks include interest-rate and credit risk. Typically, when interest rates rise, there is a corresponding decline in bond values. Credit risk refers to the possibility that the bond issuer will not be able to make principal and interest payments. Principal of mortgage- or asset-backed securities normally may be prepaid at any time, reducing the yield and market value of those securities. Obligations of U.S. gov't agencies are supported by varying degrees of credit but generally are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. gov't. The fund may use derivatives to hedge its investments or to seek to enhance returns. Derivatives entail risks relating to liquidity, leverage and credit that may reduce returns and increase volatility. Short-selling entails special risks. If the fund makes short sales in securities that increase in value, the fund will lose value. Any loss on short positions may or may not be offset by investing short-sale proceeds in other investments.
